New Sub-Station Likely To Be Erected Here

POWER CO. PLANS MODERN STATION REPORT ASSERTS

Improvement Will Cost About $20,000.00 Ramor Says

NEW LINE TO BE READY JANUARY 15

Source of Power For the Twin Cities Will Be Augmented

The Alabama Power company plans the erection of a modern sub-station here early next spring, according to rumors in industrial circles here today. It was said that the sub-station probably would cost approximately $20,000 and it is believed it will be erected on the company's property on First Avenue, near where the present steam power plant is located.

The erection of the sub-station, the report said, would follow closely the completion of the new transmission line from Hopgood here. The line probably will be finished about the middle of next January at an approximate cost of $600,000 and will connect here with the transmission line which comes by way of Huntsville.

Sheffield and Huntsville each are reached by transmission lines of 110,000 voltage, while Albany-Decatur at present are served by a line of 44,000 voltage. The new line from Hopgood, which connects with the Sheffield line at that end, also will be of 44,000 voltage.

It is understood that a sub-station will be built at Sheffield where the 110,000 voltage line will connect with the 44,000 voltage line.

The construction of the new sub-station here, it is said, will be in line with the company's policy of thoroughly modernizing all of its equipment over the state. The local sub-station here now, it was pointed out, is a converted steam plant and has not the modern equipment which will be found in the new one.

SEVERAL STREETS ARE RESURFACED

Street Department Is Getting Ready For Winter

The Albany street department, under the direction of Ed Adcock, superintendent, is getting ready for the winter season and several streets have been resurfaced with cinders to make them passable all during the approaching months.

The road between Oklahoma and Austinville has been given a new surface of cinders, while work also has been done on Third Avenue, south, between Prospect Drive and the Louisville and Nashville shops, and on Seventh street, between Sixth Avenue and the Benevolent hospital.

Superintendent Adcock today urged citizens to co-operate with the department in keeping the city streets clean.

"We hope that citizens will help us keep the city streets clean," said Mr. Adcock. "We want them to procure garbage cans and keep the cans convenient to the alley, so we may collect the garbage at regular intervals. The help of the citizens will enable us to cover much more territory."

ENTERS CAMPAIGN

One of the local organizations to enter the prize contest set up by Ben F. Martin in connection with the opening of his new laundries, is the Benevolent society, sponsor and chief agency in the erection of the local Benevolent hospital.

Adjutant Lewis In S. Army Campaign

GEORGE W. LEWIS

The Twin City Salvation army, under the leadership of Captain C. L. Kearns, is holding a series of meetings in Albany-Decatur. The chief speaker of the army at this time is Adjutant George W. Lewis, a returned Salvation Army missionary to India where he spent 12 years.

Adjutant Lewis speaks this evening at the hall of the army on East Grant street, subject, "The Line is Busy." He will speak before members of the local advisory board of the Salvation army at the offices of the Morgan County bank at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The officer spoke to some members of that board at the Morgan county bank Tuesday afternoon.

PYTHIANS RAISING FUNDS FOR HOME

Proclamation Is Read From Chancellor S. L. Johnson

The regular weekly meeting of the Knights of Pythias was held on last Monday evening with a large number present. Several important matters were brought up for discussion, the most important one being the plan of the grand chancellor, S. L. Johnson, of Anniston, Ala., to raise $50,000 this Pythian year for the Alabama widows and orphans home. The following proclamation was read to the lodge:

To all Knights of Pythias of Grand Domain of Alabama:

Whereas, the officers of your Grand lodge did, at the beginning of the present administration, announce that an effort would be made to raise the sum of $50,000.00 in this Grand Lodge year for our proposed widows and orphans home, and,

Whereas, The Pythias Home Commission has announced that the actual building of the home would start about the first of 1925 thus creating a tangible object of Pythian love and interest, and,

Whereas, As it is believed that this is the proper season of the year to make our campaign for the necessary funds to complete and equip our home,

Now I therefore, as Grand Chancellor of the Grand Domain of Alabama, do proclaim the week of November 17th to 22nd, 1924, to Pythian Home Week in Alabama and I call upon every Pythian to not only contribute in cash as much as possible, but to help in every way to make the campaign a success.

This October 15th, 1924, P. P. 61, S. L. JOHNSON, Grand Chancellor.

River Is Dragged For Two Negroes

Continued efforts Tuesday to find the bodies of Claud Teague and little Annie Maud Cheatem, negroes, drowned in the Tennessee river near Finlay's island Sunday, were unavailing. The bodies of George McCain and Minnie Cheatem, negroes, were recovered soon after the tragedy.

NINE MEN PLANT ACRE OF COTTON TO HELP SCHOOL

Lawrence Countians To Keep School Open 2 Months Longer

CO-OPERATION BY PATRONS SHOWN

Unique Stunt Used For Helping Augment the County's Funds

MOULTON, Ala., Oct. 22.—Special—A unique form of co-operation is being carried out by the school patrons of Chalybeate school district in Lawrence county. For several years the energetic trustees, headed by R. L. Clark, who has served many years, have made efforts to build up their school from one teacher to four. The district tax amounts to but little and has made it difficult to extend the term beyond the five months afforded by county funds.

This year nine men pledged themselves to grow an acre of cotton each solely for the benefit of the school and to assist in the cultivation of a common patch which in it will yield perhaps one and one-half bales. The nine acres will average around one-half bale each. The cotton is all to be sold and after the cost of ginning is subtracted from the proceeds of sales, the amount is being placed to the credit of the school which will have its term extended at least two months.

The nine men thus co-operating are R. L. Clark and J. L. Anderson, trustees, B. J. Cahela, J. W. Cole, L. S. Thrasher, Ray Morris, Hubbard Morris, and T. R. Smith and Henry Bobo, the last named being one armed men. The faculty for the year is composed of Clarence Gillespie, principal, Carl Thrasher and Miss Jane Shelton, intermediate work, and Mrs. Ida Duvall, primary teacher.

The school opened Monday with a good attendance of pupils, patrons and out-of-the-district visitors.

S. L. Morrow, county agent and editor, C. C. Horton, of Courtland, were present and made excellent addresses. Earl M. Hodson, county superintendent of education, also was present.

The county agent has a large club of boys in the neighborhood and a number of variety patches of cotton and other farm products.

BONDED CARETAKER IS GUARDING HOUSE WHERE RICHES ABOUND

Death of Spinster Followed By Discovery Of Cash In Her Home

(Associated Press) WINCHESTER, Va., Oct. 22.—A bonded caretaker guards the residence property here of Miss Martha Shumate, wealthy spinster, who died last week following the discovery of a hoarded fortune stuffed and crammed in nearly every nook and cranny of the house.

The guard was established when crowds of persons, lured by the reports of treasure hidden, threatened to overrun the premises. Bank officials today admitted that the rich woman had drawn several thousand dollars from her account recently, to distribute in modest bequests among her friends.

It became known that hardly a receptacle in the house had failed to give up money. Clocks, picture frames, covered plates and cracks and crevices poured out old gold and bank notes.

Much of the gold coin is said to be of ancient vintage, many pieces from the California mint, coined while the gold rush was at its height, and will command premiums.

Miss Shumate was the last of her line, a prominent Frederick County family that had conserved riches

DENIES BANKS GAVE CAMPAIGN FUND TO FIGHT LA FOLLETTE

Telegram To Senator Borah Takes Issue With Attorney

SUBPOENAS ARE ISSUED FOR TRIO

Bankers Are Requested To Appear Before Committee

(Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Subpoenas were issued today by the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures for William B. Eustice, of the American Bankers Association, Charles D. Hillis, former Republican national chairman, and George W. Simmons, vice president of the Mechanics and Metals bank of New York city.

They were asked to appear tomorrow.

In a telegram to Chairman Borah today, Mr. Knox denied the statement made at the Chicago hearing by Frank Walsh, attorney for LaFollette, that trust companies and national banks had been requested at a recent meeting of the American Bankers Association, to contribute a percentage of their capital "to fight LaFollette in the west."

The telegram follows: "Referring to the recent meeting of the American Bankers Association in Chicago, Sunday's papers broadcast the following statement as having been read into the record of your committee by Frank Walsh, attorney for LaFollette: 'A speech was made requesting that all trust companies be required to give one twentieth of one per cent of their capital and national banks one tenth of one per cent of their capital as contributions to fight LaFollette in the west.'"

"Inasmuch as no such statement appears in the records of our convention, of which stenotype transcripts were made, and to the best of my knowledge and belief no such statement was made, I would be glad to receive the name of the speaker to whom Mr. Walsh referred."

"No request has ever been made by the American Bankers Association for funds for political campaign purposes. I trust this correction will be accorded by you the same opportunities for publicity as the statement read in your record by Walsh."

Through a whole century. It appears that she did not complete the work of writing her will, for a document has been found in which only one bequest is made and that for only a small portion of her holdings.

No mention was made of the disposition of the enormous bank stockholdings, bank accounts, farms and city property, all of which her bank here, named as administrator, lists among her possessions. Near and distant cousins will benefit in the Shumate riches.

Local Firm Has Letter Off the ZR-3

The first local firm or individual to receive a letter by air from the continent via the ZR-3 just arrived as a part of the German war reparations is the firm of Speake & Sherill. The letter carries German stamps and is an attractive advertising scheme from L. & C. Stern company, Cuyler building, New York city.

The ZR-3 arrived at Lakehurst field New Jersey last week and carried the first air mail that has been sent from Europe to American cities.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS ARE BEING SENT OUT IN MORGAN COUNTY

Sixteen Ballots Mailed Already By Probate Office Here

FIVE PARTIES ARE ON THE TICKET

LaFollette Is Not the Independent Chief In This County

Absentee ballots for the November presidential election are being mailed out to qualified voters of Morgan county, who do not expect to be in their home polling stations on November 4. Already sixteen absentee ballots have been sent out on requests received by the probate court.

The November ballot this year will contain the names of five parties, Democratic, Republican, LaFollette-Wheeler, prohibition and independent.

An interesting feature of the ballot this fall is that while the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in many places is known as "independent" in Alabama it is listed as the "LaFollette-Wheeler party." No candidates are listed in the independent column in this county.

Election on the various tickets are: Democratic—Atticus Mullin, R. B. Vail, L. J. Bugg, Harvey M. Blue, John Q. Adams, G. C. Bates, S. J. Nolen, Jerome T. Fuller, W. E. James, Henry A. Bradshaw, S. W. Hawkins, Y. M. Quinn.

LaFollette-Wheeler—W. C. Taylor, George N. King, W. H. Anderson, R. A. Statham, N. L. Wilson, Frank N. Wynne, B. Simpson, G. Armstrong West, L. B. Baird, Ernest B. Gaston, Mrs. R. C. Cadden.

Prohibition—Dr. E. C. Anderson, Rev. R. M. Hunter, Mrs. J. W. Self, D. N. Tally, W. A. Jones, J. W. Franklin, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Miss Myrtle Hammett, A. H. Wiltshire, D. H. Waters, Rev. J. L. Mitchell, A. F. Lokey.

Republican—J. A. Bingham, Mary Hodges, Dr. W. T. Henderson, Frank Barchard, J. R. Dorsey, J. A. Jackson, J. C. Kilgore, Allison B. Scroggin, J. Frank Stone, C. O. McEniry, D. D. Trimble, J. M. Holliman.

The Republican party is the only one offering opposition to Democratic candidates for state and county offices. Frank H. Lathrop opposes Thomas J. Heflin for United States senator; P. E. Alexander and John D. Isbell oppose Virgil Bouldin and A. D. Sayre for associate justice of the supreme court; J. I. Abercrombie opposes Henry B. Foster for associate judge of court of appeals; J. B. Sloan opposes I. T. Quinn for commissioner of game and fisheries; J. I. McKinney opposes A. G. Patterson for president of the public service commission.

In Morgan county, Republicans oppose Democrats as follows: G. M. Huckaba opposes Ed. B. Almon for congress; J. C. Tabscott opposes Alex. K. Frost for member board of revenue district number three; W. J. Humphrie opposes James J. Gurley for the board of revenue in district No. 4; R. B. Minter opposes R. H. King for member board of education in district No. 2; J. B. Huie opposes J. R. Howell for member board of education district No. 3.

Cold Snap Hits, Frost Predicted

The temperature dropped 10 degrees in 24 hours in Albany-Decatur as the second cold snap of the fall arrived here. Mrs. A. H. Irons, government weather observer here, stated the coldest point reached during Monday evening was 53 degrees, while 43 degrees was recorded during the night.

There was said to have been little frost in this section last night, but the government weather forecast predicts cooler tonight and frost in some sections of the state.

LAWYERS NAMED IN BLACKMAIL CASES

Lure Is Caught Jersey Laundry; Confesses

(Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Helen Belrose, 24 years old, who was arrested in a Jersey City laundry where she was employed as a sorter has confessed that she was the lure by which a Boston blackmail gang of lawyers extorted $60,000 from Albert Victor Searles, millionaire artist, according to detectives who questioned her during the night. She also confessed that she was the lure in other plots that netted more than $600,000 the police said, although she claimed that she had received less than $400 as her share.

The police said she admitted that with Mrs. Blanche Paul she had occupied an apartment in Boston in which Searles was inveigled and "fleece." This matter along with others led to the disbarment of William J. Corcoran district attorney of Middlesex County and his subsequent indictments for extortion with six others including two lawyers.

(Associated Press)

Davis democratic candidate for the presidency brought his campaign here today and prepared to carry it tonight to Evansville. The candidate entered Indiana for the second time in his present tour of the middle west it was said at the express wish and request of the state democratic leaders that he amplify his position on the question of labor before returning to New York for the closing event of his campaign.

Mr. Davis arrived here from Louisville, Ky., where he spoke last night voicing his opinion for the first time on the method he said had been employed in the collection of campaign funds.

"A" Tags For Cars Still Are Missing

The "A" tags for automobiles of that class have not yet been received by Morgan county officials for distribution to taxpayers. All other automobile license plates are here. Collections of automobile licenses continue to be good at the probate office, but officials again today called attention to the fact that certificates of title are necessary before the license can be issued and taxpayers were urged to bring their certificates with them when applying for the plates.

Automobile owners also were requested to visit the tax office first, making their assessment on their cars, before applying at the probate office for license and license plate.

TYPIST'S HUSBAND IS HELD BY POLICE FOR THE SHOOTING

Colonel Emery Is Only Slightly Wounded In the Shoulder

FIRES TWICE AT EX-OFFICIAL

Police Say the Husband Accused Employer of Ruining Home

(Associated Press)

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 22.—Colonel John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, was shot and slightly wounded this morning as he sat in his office.

Chedell Simpson, aged 44, husband of Colonel Emery's stenographer, is held for the shooting. A divorce action is pending against him.

The story told police is that Simpson, who is a salesman entered the real estate office of the former Legion commander and asked if Mrs. Simpson worked there. Told that she did, he whipped out a revolver and fired twice at Colonel Emery, the first shot going wild and the second striking Emery in the left shoulder.

As Simpson fired, the police were told, he shouted:

"You broke up my home." Mrs. Simpson, who is 26 years old, has been in Emery's employ for two weeks, coming to his office in response to an advertisement.

Colonel Emery, at the hospital said he was at a loss why Simpson should have singled him out as the cause of his domestic troubles.

He entered the second officers training camp at Fort Sheridan August 27, 1917, was commissioned a captain and went to France with one of the first American outfits.

On October 9, 1918 he was wounded in the arm and was invalided home.

Colonel Emery was elevated to American Legion commander from the position of vice commander.

At a banquet given at the rooms of the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce last evening, attended by 177 men of the Convention Bible class of the Central Baptist church, a movement was launched having for its final object the bringing into church work of every man and boy of the Twin Cities.

Leaders of the movement said that committees would first visit all people of the community who were known to have some connection with the Baptist church; and later provided the committee is successful, its members will seek to encourage members of all the local churches to accomplish the same result.

Virginia Lady Says That Many of Her Long-Suffered Ills Have Fled Since She Took Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I can sleep good at night now, something I have never done before in my life," says Mrs. Deala Hawks, of 712 Prospect St., this city, "and it is due to Cardui."

"I was always nervous and tossed when I should have been asleep, but since I took Cardui it has strengthened me, and my general health is so improved that many of the ill from which I have suffered for years have fled."

"I used to go to bed tired and, when I would get up in the morning, I was still tired. Now I feel like doing a day's work in my garden or in the house, and I owe all this good health to Cardui, for I had suffered for years until I took it."

"I had had female trouble for years and once, for six months, I was flat on my back. I am glad to recommend to other women a medicine which has helped me."

Independents Swamped With Offers For Remainder Of Gridiron Season

Following the rather drab and discouraging event of last Saturday when the Hartselle Independents failed to make an appearance, according to schedule the management of the Independents have been swamped with offers for games to be played both on the local field and away from home.

Morgan Prep school at Petersburg, Tenn., leads the list of hefty prospects on the Y. M. C. A. card with Florence Normal appearing here early in November. Moulton plays the Independents here Saturday next and it is assured that they will appear on time. Talking with the Moulton coach, Manager Arvidson had assurance that the club would meet their agreement owing to the fact that the Moulton mentor had suffered a similar fate dealt to the Y people last Saturday. Falkville who were thought to be available for membership in the Central Baptist church and Sunday school. In addition to the movement for a larger effort to engage men and boys in church work, plans were discussed for the erection of a new church building by the congregation of the Central Baptist church.

Dr. W. P. Reeves, the pastor, who made the principal address of the evening, called attention to the steady growth of the church declaring that he saw no reason why in a year or so a new church building should not take the place of the present one.

In the course of his address the subject of which was "Bigger Things," Dr. Reeves called attention in a forcible manner to a recent church display advertisement appearing on the "Church Map" of the Daily where church work was referred to as the "biggest business in the world," saying that a man from a distance who had seen the display had written him about it, expressing his approval of the disposition of the churches to put their work and claims prominently before the world.

The final speaker of the evening was Dr. Frank L. Chenault, who, in behalf of the assembly, called for a standing vote of appreciation for the entertainers of the evening, and for the ladies of the Sunday School class of Mrs. Seneca Burr, who had prepared and served the banquet. The delighted assembly broke up in an informal way, about 10:30 o'clock. p. m.

Outline of the Activities
The dinner was served promptly at 6:30 o'clock in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce with Charles H. Eyster, acting as toastmaster. Mr. Eyster stated that the Convention Bible class had attained 100 per cent in all its undertakings.

The first of the entertainers was Mrs. C. E. Walker, who gave a reading which was greatly enjoyed. With Mrs. Seneca Burr and Mrs. D. D. Gibson, accompanists, Misses Mae and Louise Tisdale sang a duet and Mrs. Frank Morrow sang two solos, all to the great pleasure of the company.

One of the first speakers announced was John P. Matlock, who took as his subject: "In a Rut," and advised how to get out of a rut and how to stay out of it.

W. R. Spight, the popular teacher of the Convention Bible Class, spoke on "Evangelism." Mr. Spight declared "if we evangelize the Sunday school, we will revolutionize the life of the community."

B. L. Malone, in his most acceptable speech, made a hit by saying that "all church members should be in the Sunday school and all Sunday school members should be in the church." In his address, "Bigger Things," Dr. Reeves, pastor of the church, declared that the Convention Bible Class was apt to have 250 members before the year closed. Dr. Reeves showed that from a recent jail sentence list of 2,200 not a single one of the criminals had ever attended Sunday school regularly.

Dr. Reeves declared the "church is the only public institution that takes care of the whole family." Dr. C. C. Davison, pastor of the Decatur Baptist church referred at some length to the need and necessity of the Sunday school to all departments of the church work. Rev. E. Floyd Olive contented himself by offering the following receipt for right living: "This book of the law, shall not depart out of thy mouth; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein; for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success. Joshua 1-8."

By the way, Florida has gone wet.

To be ill at ease is very bad, but to be at ease is worse.

When the non-voters, those civic slackers, slack no more, even then will the millennium come.

It appears if voting will become pretty general early in November.

Northern capitalists, by continuing to make investments at Muscle Shoals, are giving the Tennessee Valley a worthwhile lesson in courage.

The republican candidate for governor of New York is being called Roosevelt the Lesser; but if young Teddy is elected he will shed that title.

President Coolidge is reported to have said Teddy II was "an inspiration." If Roosevelt or others have given Mr. Coolidge enthusiasm, he seems not able to have retained it.

The fact that he is in a hospital may prevent William Gibbs McAdoo from taking the stump for the democratic ticket, but it gives him an opportunity to prove to the world that he is quite an able letter writer.

More sense than sentiment governs the Chicago educational authorities, who have held that matrimony does not prevent matriculation of the compulsory school attendance rule, when the bride or groom is of school age.

The democratic national campaign organization points out that if all straw votes were infallible Charles Evans Hughes would have defeated Woodrow Wilson some 4,000,000 votes in 1916. As a matter of fact Mr. Wilson received a plurality of nearly 600,000.

The Florence Times remarks "Wales took in four different parties the other night in Toronto, the third one starting after three o'clock. This is perfect proof of the good habits of the Prince. No one could stand four parties in the same night in the 'corn belt.' Perhaps The Times is right, but returning wanderers had given us the impression that the necessity for 'corn' has not yet arisen in Canada. Leaving the question of capacity aside, we are quite willing to agree that Wales has proved himself possessed of good habits or Canada possessed of a better quality of 'refreshments.'"

GENERAL LEE WAS HUMAN AS WELL AS GREAT AND GOOD.

Those who love human beings for themselves will think no less of the greatness and goodness of General Robert E. Lee, when they know that the General sometimes lost his temper.

According to a statement said to be based on the authority of Thomas Nelson Page, former ambassador of the United States to Italy, General Lee and General Jackson once lost their tempers at the same time.

An account of that occurrence as appearing in the book of Norval Richardson former Secretary of the American embassy at Rome is as follows:

They were both high tempered gentlemen—in spite of what the histories say about them—and they used to get mighty outdone with each other. Once General Lee ordered General Jackson out of his tent; then he called him back, but both arms about him and said, "For God's sake, when you see me losing my temper, don't lose yours. Let's take turns at it."

In his book, "Four Years with General Lee", Col. Walter H. Taylor of General Lee's staff, relates that on one occasion when it was his duty to submit certain papers to his General he found Lee in a bad humor, so Taylor threw down the papers to let the commander see that he was also in an ill humor.

Then Col. Taylor states that in a calm voice General Lee said: "Colonel Taylor when, I lose my temper don't let it make you angry."

Some have doubted the statement in the book of Richardson, but the account Colonel Taylor gave of General Lee's losing his temper is generally accepted as a true one.

But it will be noticed in both stories, General Lee took proper notice of the fact he had lost control of himself and was ready to make suitable amends.

One of the pet habits of human beings is to make their heroes ideal in every way. Heroes are thought of as without spot or blemish. Plainly a wrong view to take. The best and most manly men have faults of temperament.

Moses spoken of as the "meekest man" is shown to have lost his temper more than once.

Because General Lee and General Jackson lost their tempers, especially when they were quick to repent of it, makes them no less great and noble characters.

If it is a fact that Lee ordered Jackson from his presence it is still true of that Christian gentleman as said in a poem of Father Ryan "the most knightly of the knightliest race that ever buckled sword."

TENNESSEE FOR DAVIS

John W. Davis did not have to come to Nashville to be assured of the vote of Tennessee. That was his minute he received his commission as commander-in-chief of the Democratic party at New York.

His visit here was a "visit of appreciation" of the aid of Tennessee in his campaign and the support that the South traditionally gives to his party and his message was a message to the South—a voice of gratitude in advance for the expression of confidence in him which will be delivered on November 4.

It was a splendid audience that greeted him in Nashville, an audience that included all classes and was drawn from every county of the state. In it were noted the faces of all the party's leaders of the past quarter of a century. It was an audience that came not only to pay its respects to a great leader, but to carry back to the mountains and the valleys that spirit of confidence in victory that the candidate himself feels.

As we read the signs of the times there is a probability of the election being decided by the Congress. If that comes to pass it is of the greatest consequence that the Democratic candidate's popular majority below the Mason and Dixon line be of the largest. The psychological effect of a great popular vote will have much weight in determining the course of members of Congress in states where the delegations are evenly divided. No one doubts for a minute that if the election goes to the Congress that the House will select John W. Davis. That task will be the easier if there is a great popular demand to back it up. The one way in which that demand may be most forcibly expressed is by rolling up for Mr. Davis on November 4 the greatest number of votes possible in democratic states. Democracy was caught napping in Tennessee in 1920. That was a lesson we shall not forget. But there is a new apathy in this state this year. Happily it is not prevalent now as a month ago. The rank and file is beginning to move. The outlook for an impressive victory is bright. But there is work to do. We must get every democrat to the polls. We must vote the full party strength for the force it may have in breaking a possible deadlock.

The democrats of Tennessee have never had the opportunity to support an able leader. Those who heard him yesterday were won by his eloquence and the force of his logic. Mr. Davis leaves this morning with the knowledge that Tennessee is his but also with the feeling that the entire South has awakened from its lethargy and will answer his personal appeal for support in a measure hitherto unequalled.—Nashville Tennessean.

STATE BANKERS MAKE PLANS TO AID THE FARMERS OF ALABAMA TO PROSPERITY

The State Bankers Association committee on agriculture has just concluded a session at Montgomery. Meeting with the committee was Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Association, representatives of Auburn and some very eminent persons from outside the state who are connected with farm educational work.

Eight projects were endorsed and decided upon the committee to be submitted to the banks of the state, viz: Boys and girls club work, proper use of commercial fertilizers, orderly marketing of farm products, livestock and poultry development, home demonstration work, use of good seed boll weevil and other insect control, and a general "live at home" policy. These will be stressed by the bankers of Alabama in the next year, and if the state bankers do wake up to the tremendous influence they can exert on the prosperity of the farm people, and use that influence, there will be a marked change for the better.

For instance, Dr. J. S. Wittemire, president of one of the banks at Oneonta, who discussed the effect of farmer's living at home on their credit. He showed that the farmer who raises his own foodstuffs is always the one who can obtain credit, but he is also the one who seldom needs it. Incidentally, Dr. Wittemire's bank was the first in the state to use an advertisement in a local paper saying that the bank would not extend credit to farmers who bought feedstuffs on credit, or used the money they might borrow from the bank with which to buy feedstuffs which they should have raised. The other Oneonta bank joined with Dr. Wittemire's institution, and reports from Blount County are to effect that this position has had a very healthy effect indeed: that more feedstuff has been raised on the farms there than in quite a long time.

The best part of it is that a position of the sort by a bank puts the farmers to thinking.

All of the projects listed are admirable and sound. If the state bankers and particularly the bankers in the small towns who cater to a farmer clientele will resolutely set themselves about aiding these eight projects in every way, and use their influence with merchants and with farmers, there will be a vast improvement in conditions.

The farmer needs, above all other classes, the friendly aid and counsel of business man, in the general acceptance of the term. First, he needs to be convinced that the bankers and merchants are his friends and well-wishers, and that their prosperity is interdependent and mutual; and next he needs to listen to the advice and counsel of these friends who have no other interest save to aid him for in aiding him, they aid themselves. A prosperous farming territory about any town or city creates a general condition of prosperity, in which all share. Politicians have for years prejudiced the farmer and filled his soul with suspicion of almost every one else, with result that the farmer has largely "gone it alone," and with no very great success. Once get the farmers to understand the interdependence of interest of farmer, banker and merchant, and the necessity for teamwork, and conditions are bound to be much improved.—Birmingham News.

COLONEL BARRY IS CALLED BY DEATHWell Known Oil Man to Be Buried Saturday At Texas Home

Colonel Roy Ano Barry, official of the Albany-Decatur Oil and Gas company, and one of the best known oil men in the state, died at the hospital here Tuesday night at 11 o'clock following an operation for appendicitis. COMPETITIVE BIDDING FOR ERECTIONS OF AWNINGS

The erection of Marquette awnings in front of the business houses on each side of Main street, is now a live subject. The Decatur Cornice & Roofing Co. has entered the bidding, and Mr. A. S. Goforth, a representative of the above company, spent Monday here, going over the matter with prospective buyers, with the view of making a proposition on the entire lot. Many owners of business houses along this thoroughfare are interested in the matter, and if a satisfactory price can be obtained, it is quite possible that many such awnings will be erected within the next sixty days.

LOG BUNGALOW COMPLETED

R. P. Barclift, who with his family, has spent the summer at Owsley Bend camping, liked the spot so well, that he has just completed a log bungalow, which has a very inviting appearance indeed. The logs were gotten from the forest abounding there, being some, were shorn of their bark, notched, and raised accordingly as the earlier settlers of the country would build their houses.

The cracks between the logs have been 'chinked and daubed' as the early settlers called it. Partitions have been placed in the large enclosure providing for four rooms, and sleeping porch up stairs. The covering is of asphalt shingles. Besides nice in appearance, the home is cozy and warm. Mr. Barclift and his family plan to spend the winter there. Many have made the trip to see the home, which is quite a diversion in modern day building.

HARTSELLE HAS ENJOYED BOUNTIFUL WATER SUPPLY

Despite the exceedingly dry weather experienced here for the past several weeks, Hartselle has enjoyed a bountiful water supply of the finest kind. A large portion of the business, furnished by Mr. Chester I. Lee, who has been the pioneer in public water supply here. He has a large tank, and into this a gasoline engine is kept busy pumping the best of water from a never failing large dug well on the premises of the Hartselle Machine company. The water has been analyzed from time to time, and is pronounced remarkably free from any contamination whatever.

JUNIOR COUNCIL PRESENT BIBLE AND FLAG TO DANVILLE SCHOOL

Junior Council, No. 16, Hartselle, went to Danville last Sunday afternoon, where at 2 p. m., a handsome American flag and Holy Bible was presented to the Danville Junior High school. A large attendance of Danville people and some from Albany, Hartselle and other points were present, and the occasion was marked by impressiveness, and the flag presentation was made.

Capt. R. A. Burleson, in an eloquent manner, with words of burning patriotism, made the presentation of the flag, it being received by Mr. R. L. Gibson, one of the splendid citizens of Danville. The Bible presentation was made by Professor F. E. Burleson, and was received by Professor Parker, principal of the Danville school.

Prior to the flag and Bible ceremonies, a welcome address was made by Mr. John W. Tomlinson, well-known citizen of Danville, who in a few well chosen words, welcomed the members of the council who had been so thoughtful of the school in making the presentation of two things of such incalculable value, and thanks were liberally accorded for each.

Hartselle council No. 16 plans to have other flag and Bible ceremonies in the near future to other schools in the county.

It is quite probable that a council of the order will be established at

Don't Throw the Boomerang of Oppressive Legislation at the Railroads

The boomerang is a dangerous weapon to use. It flies back and is likely to hit and damage the thrower.

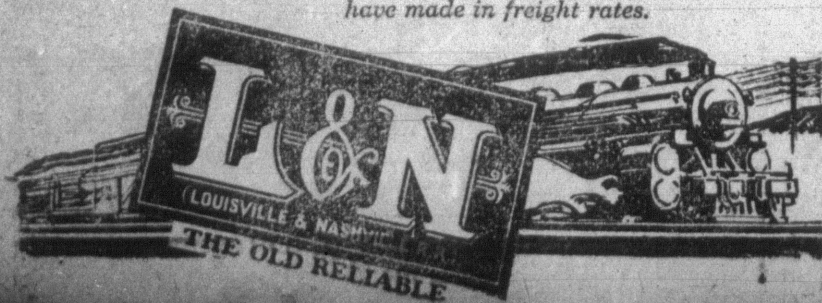

A vast amount of legislation to "regulate" the railroads is being proposed. Most of it would not only be impracticable in operation but would actually destroy the satisfactory service the railroads are now giving to the public.

Thus, like the boomerang thrown by the untutored Australian native, this legislation would "Return to plague the inventor".

The instigators of this proposed legislation are largely selfish—they don't care if it is "boomerang stuff" to the people. However, a few honest, but unthinking, people have unconsciously been influenced to join in this attack on the railroads—without realizing that whatever hurts the railroads hurts the people as well.

Don't you be a boomeranger. Give a little honest and intelligent thought and study to the railroad situation; and you'll want to help prevent the dangerous, fly-back legislation now being proposed.

Since Jan. 1, 1922, more than one billion dollars has been saved to shippers thru reductions that the railroads have made in freight rates.

CHAPTER XIV
THE CONVERT

That tale of Othman's being borne anon to Fenzileh by her son was gail and wormwood to her jealous soul. Evil enough to know that Sakr-el-Bahr was returned in spite of the fervent prayers for his foundering which she had addressed both to the God of her forefathers and to the God of her adoption. But that he should have returned in triumph bringing with him heavy spoils that must exalt him further in the affection of Asad and the esteem of the people was bitterness indeed. It left her mute and stricken, bereft even of the power to curse him.

Anon, when her mind recovered from the shock she turned it to the consideration of what at first seemed a trivial detail in Othman's tale as reported by Marzak.

"It was most singularly odd that he should have undertaken that long voyage to England to wrest thence just those two captives; that being there he should not have raided in true corsair fashion and packed his ship with slaves. Most singularly odd!"

They were alone behind the green lattices through which filtered the perfumes of the garden and the throbbing of a nightingale's voice laden with the tale of its love for the rose. Fenzileh reclined upon a divan that was spread with silken Turkey carpets, and one of her gold-embroidered slippers had dropped from her henna-stained toes. Her lovely arms were raised to support her head, and she stared up at the lamp of many colors that hung from the fretted ceiling.

Marzak paced the length of the chamber back and forth, and there was silence save for the soft swish of his slippers along the floor.

"Well?" she asked him impatiently at last. "Does it not seem odd to thee?"

"Odd, indeed, O my mother," the youth replied, coming to a halt before her.

"And canst think of naught that was the cause of it?"

"The cause of it?" quoth he, his lovely young face, so closely modeled upon her own, looking blank and vacant.

"Aye, the cause of it," she cried impatiently. "Canst do naught but stare? Am I the mother of a fool? Will thou sip and gape and trifle away thy days whilst that dog-descended Frank tramples thee underfoot, using thee but as a stepping stone to the power that should be thine own? And that he so, Marzak, I would thou hadst strangled in my womb."

He recoiled before the Italian fury of her, was dully resentful even, suspecting that in such words from a woman, were she twenty times his mother, there was something dishonoring to his manhood.

"What can I do?" he cried. "Dost ask me? Art thou not a man to think and act? I tell thee that misbegotten son of a Christian and a Jew will trample thee in the dust. He is greedy as the locust, wily as the serpent, and ferocious as the panther. By Allah! I would I had never borne a son. Rather might men point at me the finger of scorn and call me mother of the wind than that I should have brought forth a man who knows not how to be a man."

"Show me the way," he cried. "Set me a task; tell me what is to do and thou shalt not find me lacking, O my mother. Until then spare me these insults, or I come no more to thee."

At this threat that strange woman heaved herself from her soft couch. She ran to him and flung her arms about his neck, set her cheek against his own. Not eighteen years in the Basha's harem had stifled the European mother in her, the passionate Sicilian woman, fierce as a tiger in her maternal love.

"O my child, my lovely boy," she almost sobbed. "It is my fear for thee that makes me harsh. If I am angry it is but my love that speaks, my rage for thee to see another come usurping the place beside thy father that should be thine. Ah! But we will prevail, sweet son of mine. I shall find a way to return that foreign offal to the dunghouse whence it sprang. Trust me, O Marzak! Sh! Thy father comes. Away! Leave me alone with him."

She was wise in that, for she knew that alone Asad was more easily controlled by her, since the pride was absent which must compel him to turn and rend her did she speak so before others. Marzak vanished behind the screen of fretted sandalwood that masked one doorway even as Asad loomed in the other.

He came forward smiling, his slender brown fingers combing his long beard, his white djellaba trailing behind him along the ground.

"Thou hast heard, not a doubt, O Fenzileh," said he. "Art thou answered enough?"

She sank down again upon her cushions and idly considered herself in a steel mirror set in silver.

"Answered?" she echoed lazily, with infinite scorn and a hint of rippling, contemptuous laughter running through the word. "Answered indeed. Sakr-el-Bahr risks the lives of two hundred children of Islam and a ship that, being taken, was become the property of the State upon a voyage to England that had no object but the capturing of two slaves—two slaves, when, had his purpose been sincere, it might have been two hundred."

"Hail! And is that all that thou hast heard?" he asked her, mocking in his turn.

"All that signifies," she replied, still mirroring herself. "I heard as a matter of lesser import that on his return meeting fortuitously a Frankish ship that chanced to be richly laden he seized it in thy name."

"Fortuitously, sayest thou?"

"What else?" She lowered the mirror, and her bold, insolent eyes met his own quite fearlessly. "Thou'lt not tell me that it was any part of his design when he went forth?"

He frowned; his head sank slowly in thought. Observing the advantage gained, she thrust it home.

"It was a lucky wind that blew that Dutchman into his path, and luckier still her being so richly freighted that he may dazzle thine eyes with the sight of gold and gems, and so blind thee to the real purpose of his voyage."

"Its real purpose?" he asked dully. "What was its real purpose?"

She smiled a smile of infinite knowledge to hide her utter ignorance, her inability to supply even a reason that should wear an air of truth.

"Dost ask me, O perspicuous Asad? Are not thine eyes as sharp, thy wits as keen at least as mine, that what is clear to me should be hidden from thee? Or hath this Sakr-el-Bahr bewitched thee with enchantments of Babylon?"

He strode to her and caught her wrist in a cruelly rough grip of his sinewy old hand.

"His purpose, thou jaded! Pour out the foulness of thy mind. Speak!"

She sat up, flushed and defiant. "I will not speak," said she.

"Thou wilt not? Now, by the Head of Allah! Dost dare to stand before my face and defy me, thy lord? I'll have thee whipped, Fenzileh. I have been too tender of thee these many years—so tender that thou hast forgot the rods that await the disobedient wife. Speak, then, ere thy flesh is bruised or speak thereafter at thy pleasure."

"I will not," she repeated. "Though I be flung to the hooks, not another word will I say of Sakr-el-Bahr. Shall I unveil the truth to be spurned and scorned and dubbed a liar and the mother of lies?"

"He recoiled before the Italian fury of her."

Then abruptly changing she fell to weeping.

"O source of my life!" she cried to him. "How cruelly unjust to me art thou!"

She was groveling now, a thing of suppliant grace, her lovely arms entwining his knees.

"When my love for thee drives me to utter what I see I earn but thy anger, which is more than I can endure. I swoon beneath the weight of it."

He flung her off impatiently.

"What a weariness is a woman's tongue!" he cried, and stalked out again, convinced from past experiences that did he linger he would be wheeled in a torrent of words.

But her poison was shrewdly administered and slowly did its work. It abode in his mind to torture him with the doubts that were its very essence. No reason, however well founded, that she might have urged for Sakr-el-Bahr's strange conduct could have been half so insidious as her suggestion that there was a reason. It gave him something vague and intangible to consider. Something that he could not repel since it had no substance he could grapple with. Impatiently he awaited the morning and the coming of Sakr-el-Bahr himself, but he no longer awaited it with the ardent whole-hearted eagerness as of a father awaiting the coming of a beloved son.

FIRST METHODIST NAMES STEWARDS

Rector Recommended For Pastor's Work

The final quarterly conference of the First Methodist church to be held before the meeting of the North Alabama Methodist conference in Talladega, closed at the First Methodist church last night after much business had been attended to.

One action of the conference of special interest was its recommendation of Nelson H. Rector, assistant sanitary engineer of the Alabama Board of Health for license to become a gospel minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

It is expected that the North Alabama Conference at its coming annual meeting at Talladega will take favorable action on the recommendation.

A resolution was passed by unanimous vote of the stewards expressing appreciation for the four year's services of Presiding Elder Dr. Walter P. McGlawn. James H. Johnson was re-elected Superintendent of the Sunday school; T. L. Baker, lay leader, and Marvin West, district steward.

The following were named by church authorities as the board of stewards for the ensuing year: Marvin West, W. E. Roper, S. D. Johnson, J. H. Johnson, D. D. McGehee, Z. Trimble, F. H. Pointer, W. N. Hall, S. H. Malone, O. B. Cartwright, B. P. Cartwright, L. J. Ramage, A. J. Harris, J. W. Bailey, W. W. Callahan, Clyde Hendrix, R. W. Holland, J. C. White, N. R. Carrell, W. H. Ritter, W. T. Lowe, J. R. Thomas, L. W. Lee, Leon Robinson, T. L. Baker, Sr., and Dr. W. L. Dinamore.

Owing to the fact Phil Humphrey has removed to Florida, his name has been taken from the list of stewards of this church.

MANY of the original Anchor Hot Blast Heaters—built twenty years ago—are still in daily use, and according to claims of their owners, improving with age.

Frankly, we consider this remarkable, yet we find a source of pride in the fact that the same high quality of material and workmanship is a distinguishing mark of the Anchor today, and that our original construction principles have never been improved upon.

However, a marked improvement in the appearance of this heater has been made. Its lines are graceful and beautiful. Accept our invitation to come in and inspect the Anchor Hot Blast.
